

Caterpillars learning

We've been so messy! Art week continued because we were having so much fun, splashing paint, moulding and shaping clay and making colourful collages.

We've really enjoyed the sunny days, playing outside with the water wall and trying to pedal the new bikes and trikes. Some of the children have been visiting butterflies class ready for their next move into the preschool year.

Butterflies learning

Wow June has been so busy! Some children are starting to visit their new 'big schools' and our parents session for school leavers was well attended as children tried out each challenge. In Art week Butterflies tried different art styles including painting in the style of Jackson Pollock and Van Gogh and collage with lines and shapes to create our own versions of Mondrian's art.

We've been watching our caterpillars grow too, but they haven't emerged from their cocoons yet!

Please note:
